

Tara Huebner

I joined Court Services in December 2008. (17 years ago!) I attended Colorado Technical University in Sioux Falls; and several of my professors were also professionals in their field, making many of the courses interesting by providing insight from their own personal experiences directly in the criminal justice field. I have always enjoyed helping others from a young age. As a Court Services Officer, I enjoy helping individuals work on ways to make good decisions and stray away from poor decisions. The most rewarding part is seeing them become proud of themselves-- some have never felt proud before. I have always had a passion for helping make a positive impact in my community and, ultimately, communities statewide. being a Court Services Officer and helping offenders get on the right path is rewarding when they find and utilize the tools to be a productive member of society, who are then able to contribute to their community by paying taxes, being employed, and taking care of their families while not reoffending.
