SUPERVISORY FUNCTIONS

Supervises judicial and non-judicial personnel; assigns and monitors work to assigned staff; assumes responsibility for atypical and complex projects; and prioritizes self-assigned work.

ESSENTIAL FUNCTIONS REQUIRE

Operating office machines such as computers, telephones, copiers, etc.; lifting and moving files; in-state travel; handling and storing exhibits properly; and attendance in accordance with rules and policies. Incumbents are required to work effectively with coworkers and the public, maintain confidentiality, manage stress, meet deadlines, recognize and resolve errors, and understand and communicate (verbally and in writing) procedures and practices.

PROBLEMS AND CHALLENGES

Challenged to consistently implement UJS protocols and procedures to accomplish assigned tasks. This is challenging because of the diversity of work that is done through clerks of court offices, the knowledge of multiple processes that is required, the variety of people and organizations with whom incumbents interact routinely, the importance of assisting with courtroom procedures, and the duty to provide acceptable customer service that speaks well of UJS.

Problems encountered include prioritizing work of others, providing assistance to people unfamiliar with court procedures without giving legal advice, allocating adequate time for hearings, disgruntled customers and being able to calm them in order to assist with what they need, file information that is not up to date and requires knowing where to research to get answers, interruptions, and keeping up with computer input during the fast pace of court.

DECISION-MAKING AUTHORITY

Decisions include the order of work to be assigned to subordinates; correct case types for papers filed and correct order of papers in file; advising pro se individuals of procedures they must follow; maintaining financial accounts and payment plans for fines, costs, restitution, etc.; and assigning court dates and times for hearings.

DEPUTY COURT CLERK II

Decisions referred include requests for legal advice; issues that arise that are not addressed in the clerk's manual; schedules for longer trials (to court reporters); and pretrial conferences to set discovery, deadlines, and trial dates.

CONTACT WITH OTHERS and PURPOSE

Daily contact with court clerks to advise them of issues with cases, customers, personnel, and courtroom needs; with attorneys, court services, sheriffs' offices, State's Attorneys' offices, Department of Social Services, judges, Driver's Licensing, etc., to share information on cases; and with the general public to provide information and answer questions about court processes; routine contact with State's Attorneys' offices, attorneys and staff, court services officers, sheriffs' officers, pro se individuals, and state agencies to schedule hearings and court dates that work for everyone involved.

WORKING CONDITIONS

The incumbent works in a typical office and/or court environment; transports case files and pertinent materials to and from court, which may involve travel; and deals with people who are distraught, angry, and want assistance.
